

PCA Packs School Supplies to Help Students in Need

August 7, 2014

At a recent corporate event, PCA employees filled over 100 backpacks with school supplies for underprivileged children. The backpacks were donated to Equitas Academy, a free public charter school that provides a structured, achievement-based community focused on preparing students to attend four-year colleges and universities.

One Equitas student and recipient of a backpack wrote: “Thank you for the school supplies and backpacks. We express gratitude towards you for what you have done. Not a lot of people have money to buy school supplies, because they don’t have jobs or need the money to buy food. Thank you so much!”

To learn more about Equitas Academy and how you can help, please visit their website at www.equitasacademy.org.